g) Reading and Comprehension:

Since 2008 Brazil has the “dry law” which is zero alcohol tolerance. This means that drinking a beer or a small glass of wine before driving is a serious offense, and penalties are severe – The higher the level, the larger the fine.

I really agree with the “dry law”, because when I was 16 years old, my best friend was killed by a drunk driver. The drunk driver was just 20 years old, but he had been involved in two other alcohol-related accidents. Even though his driver's license had been officially canceled, he continued to drink and drive anyway. Actually, he was so intoxicated he didn't know he had killed my friend. It was the worst thing in my life. I still think about that tragic accident every day.

In my opinion, the process of learning how to drive doesn't end when the person gets the driver's license. Learning how to drive means learning how to make responsible decisions while driving. Driving is a daunting task for even the most experienced person. So, think about your way of driving: “Do you text while driving?” “Are you distracted by the conversation on the phone?” “Did you ever drink alcohol before driving?” Please, avoid doing anything wrong while you drive.

Answer:

1. What is the meaning of “dry law”? It means zero alcohol tolerance.
2. What happened when she was 16? Her best friend was killed by a drunk driver.
3. How old was the drunk driver? He was just 20 years old.
4. Why couldn't the boy drive? Because his driver's license had been officially canceled.
5. Tell me about the process of learning how to drive. It means to make responsible decisions while driving.
